Select two for the activity.

- 1. Social media (for example, Facebook, Twitter or Instagram) can be a powerful tool to make positive social change.
- 2. It is more meaningful to take social action offline (in real life) than it is to engage in social action online.
- 3. Young people today are more interested in social justice issues than young people 20+ years ago because of social media and technology.
- 4. Sharing a hashtag or article related to a social issue is not real activism.
